THE DUE PROCESS PARTY: A VIABLE ALTERNATIVE FOR THE FUTURE OF AMERICA?

The 2016 and 2020 Presidential Elections in the United States have proven, beyond any reasonable doubt by any reasonable person, that both the Democratic and Republican political parties are broken and beyond repair.

Worse yet, the leaders of both these parties are causing more damage than good by and through their relentless, self-centered, irrational campaigns to denigrate the opposition; all as apparent justification for shirking their duties to put their differences in proper perspective when it comes to participating in the management of the greatest nation on earth. The U.S. party-politics of both the Democrats and Republicans have become a world-wide embarrassment.

The so-called "leaders" of both the Democrat and Republican parties have totally forgotten that they were elected to serve their constituencies of sovereign people. Like a bad marriage before an imminent divorce, the Democrats and Republicans are more interested in "getting even with each other" than actually resolving the country's pressing issues by reaching common ground. Both the Democrats and Republicans "look the other way" or "blame each other" for the corruption, debt beyond imagination, and the self-accumulation of personal wealth and control has become the accepted status quo and modus operandi for those that make it to the elite club in Washington. Their self-serving indifference (toward the real plight of Americans who don't enjoy the privileged culture of the Washington crowd) has become a play-ground for the "rich to get richer and the poor to get poorer" under the guise of serving the people.

Perhaps these so-called leaders should stop telling everyone what to believe, who to believe, when to believe, and why to believe; and just go home.

America became great because its founding forefathers recognized the supreme nature of "individual sovereignty." Maybe, therefore, we need an electorate that demands to be heard and recognized for what they really are: a sovereign people with the ultimate power to manage the United States in accordance with the rule of law, equal protection under the law, and due process with "zero-tolerance" for the arbitrary rule which now threatens to take down America.

Bottom line: A political party is a group of people who come together with common beliefs to influence elections and hold power in the government. Hopefully, those Americans who believe in a country "of the people, by the people, and for the people" will come together and mandate a return to the fundamental constitutional provisions that were enacted to protect every American's right to "life, liberty, and property" as set forth in the 5th and 14th Amendments to the Constitution of the United States of America.

Such a party would shine as a beacon of hope in our country that is now on the verge of self-destruction. The party of the future will not be the Democrats or the Republicans. It will be the party that actually can re-unify the masses of people through the most common ground of all; the restoration of due process and the end of arbitrary rule. Perhaps it will be aptly named as "The Due Process Party."
