DUE PROCESS EDUCATION

Once you find out more about your due process rights (especially if you have a "proactive mindset), you can enroll in The Due Process 101 Education Program ("Due Process 101"). This is a private, one-of-a kind resource designed to expedite and enhance your ability to defend against civil, criminal, and administrative actions taken against you.; whether you are protecting your own interests, or using an attorney to protect your interests. In essence, Due Process 101 is a "short course" in the preservation and protection of individual due process rights. It is the product of several decades of hands-on experience in the legal arena by the team of individuals who researched, compiled, organized and wrote the program material. Due Process 101 is delivered online at an extremely affordable cost. The Due Process Advocate is hopeful that due process education will eventually become a mandatory part of secondary school curriculums throughout the country.
